From Packards to Pintos

Many car shows have adopted a less-formal atmosphere over the years — and that's good

It's a time of change.

There are now a greater variety of car shows, with a greater variety of classes, than ever before. On one end of the spectrum, there are the traditional concours d'elegance represented by mega-events such as Pebble Beach, Amelia Island and Hilton Head.

At these, multi-million-dollar cars are presented by owners and restorers who are striving for perfection, both in functionality and presentation. The competition for trophies is intense.

These traditional events are formal, day-long affairs that start early in the morning and end with the presentation of the coveted Best of Show award in the late afternoon.

At the other end of the spectrum are the legions of Cars & Coffee-style events that can be found in nearly every community on weekend mornings. While there may be a marque theme for a specific event, in reality, everyone is welcome. You show up, kick tires with your buddies for a couple of hours and leave to enjoy the rest of your day. No judging, no trophies, no pressure.

There is a new middle ground emerging. At some traditional concours, new less-formal classes are being offered, designed to intrigue and entertain. There are classes for cars from the '80s and '90s (RADwood), for station wagons ("longroofs") and even for crap cars (Concours d'Lemons).

In one easy morning, you can take in everything from Packards to Pintos. This broadening of the show fields to be more inclusive is good for all of us.

It means that you can find something to enjoy no matter what your car budget is. You will invariably see cars that are new to you and meet enthusiasts who are new to you as well. Many of my friendships have started through conversations with fellow fanatics at car shows who were just lolly-gagging around a car we both enjoyed.

SCM's 2022 Insider's Guide to Concours d'Elegance is a map that will help you plan your car-show adventures across the country and across the calendar. Start making your plans today. — Keith Martin, Publisher, Sports Car Market ■

The Automotive Concours Evolves

As formal concours adapt to a changing world, fresh perspectives create new events

By Carl Bomstead

The Pebble Beach Concours shook up its formula several years back when it introduced a class for significant period-built hot rods, an addition that has proved extremely popular

The concours world is evolving, and it is all positive and more inclusive for the expanding car hobby. As the major concours adapt to an ever-changing environment, auxiliary events are growing.

Like a rolling Pebble

The famed Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance is arguably the most prestigious collector-car event in America, if not the world. Over the years, it has evolved while carefully maintaining its rich tradition of presenting and preserving the world's finest automobiles. It has also embraced the evolution of the car-collecting community.

Some years ago, traditionalists were astounded when a class for genuine period-built and historically significant hot rods was added to the 18th fairway at Pebble Beach, something that would have been unheard of in the past. It was, however, a tremendous success and has been repeated on alternating years since.

Early concours events had a reputation, often rightly deserved, of presenting cars that had never driven a mile on actual streets. They were carefully rolled off the transport truck and cautiously pushed onto the show field with collecting a trophy as the sole intent. Fortunately, that's changed. Today, driving tours are now an integral part of most major concours and can play an important role in judging. Participation serves as a tiebreaker at Pebble Beach and it has, in fact, entered into numerous final decisions. Each year, the tour route is lined with spectators who anticipate both seeing and hearing these cars in their natural environment — on the road.

Expanding alternatives

The formality of the major concours events has opened the door for less-orthodox automotive shows. The Concours d'Lemons, which first appeared some years ago during Monterey Car Week, is one of the best known. If authenticity, quality of restoration and elegance are the hallmarks of the major concours, then neglect, rust and a sense of humor are the qualities required for the coveted “Best of the Worst” award at the Concours d'Lemons. While not formally affiliated with any concours, Lemons has become an interesting, accessible and light-hearted addition to many more-serious events that are held throughout the country.

Another worth mentioning is The Little Car Show, which has been held for 12 years in Pacific Grove during Monterey Car Week. The micro and mini

Cars & Coffee on steroids: RADwood events, such as this display at the Greenwich Concours d'Elegance, engage a younger demographic cars need to be at least 24 years old, with engines of less than 1,601 cc. Electric cars are also welcomed. The 2021 event, which is followed by a cruise around the city's scenic waterfront, attracted 125 cars, lining the streets with examples from Hillman, Bantam and Crosley, among other delightful small cars. Spectator admission was free of charge and the streets were jammed with admiring and appreciative enthusiasts, virtually all with smiling faces.

RADwood and NeXgen are a pair of newcomers that especially appeal to collectors both young in age and those that gravitate towards younger classics. RADwood has expanded to 10 nationwide events and can be best described as Cars & Coffee on steroids. It focuses on cars, trucks and motorcycles from the '80s and '90s. NeXgen has a similar format and currently focuses on the New England area.

These various events may be less traditional than your favorite concours, but they expose more varied demographics to the mosaic of the car-collecting world. They can only benefit the overall well-being of the hobby. There is no one correct style of concours, only the incorrect decision of staying parked on the sidelines. ■

The Japanese Automotive Invitational, adjacent to the Pebble Beach Concours for the past few years, also caters to younger generations and a more outsider aesthetic

When you have the largest fleet of specialized automotive carriers in North America, safely transporting a fleet of vehicles to an auto show or delivering an auction purchase right to a collector's doorstep is customary. With award-winning drivers at the helm, first-class service is standard.
